What Will It Cost?

Those who have never tested the usefulness of them of The Journal classified ads are apt to wonder about what the cost will be of securing, through advertising, the result they desire.

What is it costing you, per day, to be out of work?

What is it costing you, per day, to be without a tenant for that house, apartment or store?

What is it costing you to "get along" without needed help in your home, in your business?

What is it costing you to have a vacant furnished room?

Would the expense, each day, for a journal classified ad be greater than the expense incurred inevitably through trusting to luck about these things?

To use Journal classified advertising, day by day, until you secure work, or a tenant, or help, would involve a very slight expense compared with the loss to you inflicted by the lack of these.

WHAT IS IT COSTING YOU NOT TO ADVERTISE?
